About This Work

The picture depicts the beauty of Punjab, aka Land of Five Rivers, which is the northern state of India. The day when I clicked this picture, I was casually walking in our rice fields when I suddenly saw such a beautiful scene which tempted me to capture it as soon as possible. I randomly took only one shot. The ratio of sky and land is perfect and sun enlightens this image by acting as a cherry on a cake. Technical details: I used my Samsung Galaxy M40 (mobile), without using any external equipment.
